

APP GLOSSARY

Study:

A study is a collection of one or more surveys and active tasks. Studies can vary in duration from 1 day with 1 short survey to several years with multiple surveys per week.

Activity:

The general term for an active task or survey.

Survey:

A series of questions presented to app users a part of a study. If you exit the app before completing a survey, you can pick up where you left off when you return to the survey. Some surveys are only available in the app for a predefined time period.

Active Task:

A game-like activity that utilizes the sensors and/or touch screen to collect additional data not easily captured by survey questions.

Passcode:

A passcode and/or touch ID is used to unlock the app after you have closed it. It is separate from your app password. If you ever completely sign out of the app, you will be prompted to create a new passcode when you sign back in. This ensures you can sign in and protect your privacy on multiple devices.

Completion:

A completion percentage appears in the study list and on each study dashboard. It represents how far along you are in the study, based on all activities that have been made available to you so far. If an activity repeats, each run of the activity is counted. For example, if 10 activities have been distributed to you so far, and you completed 4 and missed 1, your completion percentage would be 50%. Your completion percentage does not go down if you miss an activity.

Adherence:

An adherence percentage appears on each study dashboard. It represents the percentage of activities you completed before they expired. This number will be 100% as soon as you complete one activity, but it will drop as soon as an activity expires before you complete it. For example, if 10 activities have been distributed to you so far, and you completed 4 and missed 1, your adherence percentage would be 80%. This information is just for your own use and has no impact on any other element of the app or study.
